About Weddings By Michael

Hello, my name is Michael Sewell, and I have more than 35 years of experience as a photographer. Throughout my career, I have had the opportunity to work with esteemed organisations such as Getty Images, the Marriott & Macdonald Hotel groups, and numerous other hotels. My reputation for creativity, expertise in lighting, and meticulous attention to detail allows me to create breathtaking images. While I am based in the picturesque Lake District of Cumbria, I can work anywhere. My photography skills have even taken me to the United States.

When it comes to your special day, you couldn't ask for anyone better. I will only provide guidance during planned shoots. Otherwise, I will seamlessly blend in with the surroundings, capturing authentic moments of your wedding and the genuine reactions of you and your guests.

2 Photographers Are Better Than 1

Helen is my trusty sidekick in the world of photography. With over a decade of experience under her belt, she excels at capturing the beauty of movement. Her expertise in dance photography has taken her on exciting journeys across the UK, even working with the renowned United Dance Organisation. Having two photographers on our team brings a delightful advantage - we can not only capture the bride's preparations but also those of the groom. Moreover, it allows us to sneakily seize candid moments as many guests are focused on one photographer or the other. Together, we bring joy and excitement to the world of wedding photography!

Frequently Asked Questions

What Questions Do I Ask My Wedding Photographer?

Planning a wedding is such an exciting journey, and finding the perfect wedding photographer is definitely high on the list of priorities. Here are some joyful questions you should ask to ensure you're making the right choice:

1. Can you share more about your photography style? Are you more inclined towards traditional poses or do you prefer capturing candid moments?
2. How many weddings have you shot in the past? Do you have any specific experience with indoor/outdoor venues or certain cultural traditions?
3. What is included in your photography packages? Will you be providing both digital copies and prints?
4. Could we have a look at your portfolio? We'd love to see examples of your work and get a sense of your creativity and expertise.
5. Do you have backup equipment in case something goes wrong? We want to make sure nothing will disrupt our treasured memories.
6. Will there be a second shooter or assistant working alongside you? This can help ensure that all important moments are captured from different angles.
7. How long will it take for us to receive our photos after the wedding? We're excited to relive those precious moments!
8. Are there any additional services or add-ons available, such as engagement sessions or an online photo gallery for sharing with friends and family?
9. Have you worked at our chosen venue before? If not, will you visit it beforehand to scout for beautiful photo spots?
10. Finally, what is your policy regarding retouching/editing? We want our photos to look natural but also flawless.

By asking these questions, you'll gain insight into the photographer's skills, capabilities, and compatibility with your vision for the day.

What Information Do I Give My Wedding Photographer?

When communicating with your wedding photographer, it's important to provide them with all the necessary information to help capture your special day perfectly. Firstly, share the details of your wedding venue and its location. This will give them an idea of the lighting conditions and space available for different photo opportunities. Additionally, inform them about any specific shots or moments you want to be captured, such as the first dance or family portraits.

Share your wedding timeline, including key events like the ceremony, cocktail hour, and reception. This will enable your photographer to plan their coverage accordingly and ensure they don't miss any essential moments. Discuss your preferred photography style and any specific editing preferences you may have.

Don't forget to share information about important people involved in the wedding party. Mention names and relationships so that your photographer can easily identify individuals for group shots or candid photos.

If there are any unique elements or personal touches incorporated into your wedding, let your photographer know in advance. This could be anything from a surprise performance to a special décor item — these details will help them anticipate noteworthy moments.

Lastly, communicate openly about your expectations regarding delivery timelines and preferred formats for receiving the final photographs.

Openly discussing these aspects will ensure a joyful collaboration between you and your wedding photographer in capturing timeless memories of your big day!
